

She's A Fine Woman And I'm A Fine Man

Sung by "Square" Jim MacDonald –Commercial Fisherman (1888-1970)

Port Dover – Circa 1961 (recorded on reel to reel tape at a party)

I placed my hand on my true love's toe
Toe tipper of my true love
Toe tipper
And so it goes on - she's a fine woman and I'm a fine man

I placed my hand on my true love's heel
Heel rocker of my true love
Heel rocker toe tipper
And so it goes on - she's a fine woman and I'm a fine man

I placed my hand on my true love's shin
Shin splinter of my true love
Shin splinter, heel rocker, toe tipper
And so it goes on - she's a fine woman and I'm a fine man

I placed my hand on my true love's knee
Knee knocker of my true love
Knee knocker, shin splinter, heel rocker, toe tipper
And so it goes on - she's a fine woman and I'm a fine man

I placed my hand on my true love's thigh
Thigh itcher of my true love
Thigh itcher, knee knocker, shin splinter, heel rocker, toe tipper
And so it goes on - she's a fine woman and I'm a fine man

I placed my hand on my true love's _____ _____ fucker of my true love _____fucker, thigh itcher, knee knocker, shin splinter, heel rocker, toe tipper
And so it goes on - she's a fine woman and I'm a fine man

[and so it goes on – with the refrain getting longer each time]

I placed my hand on my true love's:
Belly - bunter
Tit – sucker
Chin – pointer
Mouth – kisser
Nose – blower
Eye – looker
Ear – harker
Head – thinker

As he gets towards the end of the song Square Jim sometimes fills in the blanks in verse six.
